

The Real World of Money PowerPoint activity was created by Chad Foster, best-selling author of Financial Literacy for Teens. This self-directed resource will provide an invaluable dose of financial wisdom to students from all walks of life. Students who complete this short, electronic activity will walk away with a clear picture of the true cost of housing, transportation, leisure activities, clothing, food, and 'surprise' expenses. Once students understand the real cost of their lifestyle choices they will be better prepared to make wise financial decisions and to avoid future financial pitfalls.

The Real World of Money can be implemented as an in-class project for all students or as an individual student assignment. This nationally-acclaimed resource is comprised of a self-explanatory 72-slide PowerPoint activity and a comprehensive Spending Plan Worksheet that will be completed by each student. The Real World of Money PowerPoint resource price of $145.00 includes a 10-year license for unlimited use within an individual school. No teacher training is required for implementation of the Real World of Money PowerPoint activity.

How much does it really cost to live in the Real World?
